Your Follow-up Visits

Follow-up after having a liver transplant is very important. Transplant hepatologists at UWMC follow our patients very closely. All liver transplant patients are expected to return for checkups every year for the rest of their lives. This visit is vital for the long-term survival of your new liver. It also helps us coordinate care with your other healthcare providers.

Annual testing can include blood and urine tests, a liver ultrasound, and a chest X-ray. Sometimes, other tests may be needed, such as a liver biopsy or an abdominal CT or MRI scan.

During your follow-up clinic visits, the Liver Transplant team will review all of your test results and talk with you about your ongoing care.
